These protective measures slow the spread of disease and reduce burden on hospitals.

With protective measures, healthcare system capacity is not overwhelmed.

Without protective measures, the peak of cases is higher and healthcare system capacity is overwhelmed.